

XXI Conference on Religious Alternatives in Latin America
Religion in the Global South. Contributions and challenges from Latin America.

30 years of ACSRAL

July 23, 24, 25 and 26, 2024 - Montevideo (in person)

In collaboration with the International Association for the History of Religions (IAHR)
CALL FOR PROPOSALS FOR WORKING GROUPS

Presentation.

The year 2024 will mark the thirtieth anniversary of the creation of our Association. Throughout its existence, it has established itself as a privileged space for dialogue and academic discussion among religion researchers from/about Latin America, which has linked different generations of consolidated scholars and scholars in training, has promoted disciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches, has influenced the configuration of research agendas of regional scope, and works to make our specialized production visible, becoming a benchmark of what happens in our Latin American field.

We want to celebrate this trajectory, and at the same time enhance it by opening our central event, the Conference, to an exchange with colleagues from other latitudes to position regional contributions in the discussion of religion from the global south and enrich our regional vision by thinking of ourselves in relation and dialogue with other contexts.

In this edition of our Conference, we will have the presence and international collaboration already confirmed by the Association for the History of Religions (IAHR) and we are planning for other international instances to join us.

Call for the presentation of Working Groups (WG).

We hereby call for the presentation of proposals for Working Groups.
